

Coastal Studies Institute board to meet Thursday

The UNC Coastal Studies Institute Board of Directors will hold their bi-annual meeting at 217 Budleigh Street, Manteo on Thursday, April 23 from 9-11 a.m

The meeting will cover a progress report on the future of the new campus located on Roanoke Island as well as committee updates.

The board of directors is the advising body for the UNC Coastal Studies Institute (CSI), an inter-university collaborative program under UNC General Administration. CSI's mission is to undertake research, offer educational opportunities, provide community outreach programs and enhance communications among those concerned with the unique history, culture, and environment of the maritime counties of North Carolina. The board of directors is chaired by Mike Kelly and made up of twelve members and three ex-officio members, including CSI director Dr. Nancy White.
